

Coghlin Companies Expanding Sales Force to Meet National and Global Demand for its Services

Coghlin Companies, Inc.'s subsidiaries are seeking successful independent sales representatives in select locations around the country.

Online PR News – 14-March-2011 – Coghlin Companies, Inc. has a strong regional contract manufacturing presence in the Northeast. Coghlin Companies, Inc.'s three subsidiaries are all located in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. They provide product engineering, design for manufacturability, prototype and pilot development and contract manufacturing services to a variety of industries.

Increasingly, leading entrepreneurs and companies from around the country have contacted Coghlin Companies to engage in product engineering, contract manufacturing, production of industrial manufacturing equipment and industrial automation equipment, as well as contract manufacturing of medical devices. Coghlin Companies is seeking to contract with successful independent sales representatives in select locations to meet increased national demand for its services.

“Coghlin Companies has provided high quality engineering product development and contract manufacturing services for over 125 years,” said Chris Coghlin, President and CEO, Coghlin Companies. “Increased inquiries from all over the US and globally have motivated us to offer that same quality and flexible service offering to leading technology companies around the country. Expanding our sales team will allow us to continue working on innovative projects that impact their respective industries regardless of their proximity.”

Coghlin Companies is seeking independent sales representatives that actively run their own business and maintain their own liability insurance. Sales representatives may sell other products or represent other companies, but may not compete against Coghlin Companies or any of its subsidiaries.
